ATK was launched as an independent company in 1990, when Honeywell spun off its defense businesses to shareholders. The former Honeywell businesses had supplied defense products and systems to the U.S. and its allies for 50 years, including the first electronic autopilot that enabled B-17 aircraft to accomplish pinpoint bombing missions during World War II. ATK expanded into the aerospace market with the acquisitions of Hercules Aerospace Company in 1995 and Thiokol Propulsion in 2001, which transformed the company into the world's largest supplier of solid propellant rocket motors and a leading provider of high-performance composite structures. Vision To be a global, diversified, industrial company that develops and manufactures highly-engineered materials and products that support mission-critical applications for our defense, aerospace, and security and sporting customers. Mission: To deliver profitable, sustainable growth, exceed customer expectations, and create shareholder value through execution excellence, strong financial performance, product innovation, portfolio diversification, and disciplined investments. ATK is committed to providing equal employment opportunity to all applicants and employees. In keeping with this commitment, ATK recruits, hires, trains and promotes into all job levels the most qualified individuals without regard to race, color, creed, religion, sex, national origin, disability, genetic information, age, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, citizenship status, marital status, military or veteran status, or any other legally protected characteristic.
